"Hurry up and finish getting dressed for school. Your breakfast is on the table and getting cold," said Michael's mother.

"I'm almost ready. Please, may I read just one more page?" asked Michael.

"What are you reading?" his mother asked.

"It's a book about Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.," replied Michael. "Mom, did you know that Dr. King went to college when he was only fifteen years old? He became a strong leader in his community and believed that everyone should have an equal opportunity to work hard to get a good education and a good job. He helped a lot of people and won the Nobel Peace Prize. I want to be like that too some day."

"Well, not until after breakfast," his mother said gently and smiled.
