

Name _____

Twinkle, Twinkle Little Firefly

Hillary is five years old. She lives in the city and has never seen a firefly. Last weekend Hillary visited her cousins who live in the country. As she sat on their big front porch looking in wonder at the many stars in the sky, she suddenly became very excited.

“Mommy, I see little lights twinkling in the yard! Some of the stars must have fallen from the sky!”

“Those are fireflies,” her mother explained.

Hillary sprinted into the grass to try to catch one.
