Jim and John

Jim and John are identical twins. They look almost exactly the same. Sometimes they play a trick on their dad. Jim pretends to be John, and John pretends to be Jim. Dad is too clever, though, and quickly figures it out. “You boys are double trouble,” he says and laughs. They smile because they know he really means they are twice the fun.

1. What are the names of the boys in the story who look alike?

2. Why do Jim and John look so much alike?

3. How does their father react when they play their trick on him?

4. Do the boys enjoy playing this trick on their father?

5. Are Jim and John the same age? Why do you think this?
